Activities

Parade '80

The Homecoming Parade was an inspiring precedent to the Homecoming Game. Colorful floats and banners were creatively constructed by many of the university's Greeks, clubs, and organizations. The best in the all around competition and the winners of the best float were Pi Beta Phi and Alpha Tau Omega. During the parade, some individuals expressed their opinions about the newly elected homecoming princess by carrying around banners and signs ridiculing him. Along with the floats and banners were the Florida State Marching Chiefs as well as bands from neighboring high schools. The majorettes and cheerleaders also found their places in the parade and such distinguished guests as Senator Barron and County Commissioners Robert Henderson and Doug Nichols rode in the parade as well. Alumni Robert Urich also participated in the festivities as Grand Marshall of the parade. He is popularly known as "Dan Tanna" starring in the television series "Vega$".

Then and Now

Pow Wow

Florida State's 1980 Pow Wow was a time for gathering and celebrating the future Homecoming Victory. It took place at Doak Campbell Stadium on October 17 where 20 thousand people assembled to attend the concert. The opening band was "The Dirt Band" and they performed popular songs such as "Mr. Bojangles" and "American Dream." The main attraction was "The Little River Band" and their performance included such songs as "Lady", "Cool Change", and "Lonesome Loser." The highlight of the evening was their encore, "Reminiscing." At the Pow Wow, the homecoming princess and chief were to be crowned, yet due to the unusual circumstances, only the princess received her crown that evening.

A Unique Homecoming for 1980

This year's Homecoming was just a little different from previous years. It highlighted Bill Wade, a 17 year-old junior, as Homecoming Princess. To prove his point that Homecoming elections are based on popularity, that males are stereotyped as macho and females as passive ladies, and that Greeks dominate the entire election process, Wade ran for Homecoming Princess under the name of Billie Dahhling and won by some 150 votes in one of the largest voting turnouts in recent years. Though most of the court and many fraternities planned to boycott Homecoming activities if Wade did not drop out of the competition, a compromise was reached where Wade would be crowned at Friday night's Pow-wow and his name announced during the half-time festivities at the Homecoming game against Boston College on October 18 in exchange for his not being on the field during the ceremonies.

Cecil Howard reigned as this year's Homecoming Chief. The Homecoming Court included Cynthia Boykin, Sue LaRue, Vici Powell, Alexia Robinson, Israel Andrews, Kent Barton, Tony Linguanti and Kevin Saunders.

Also present for the crowning and presiding as Grand Marshall at the Homecoming Parade was Clara Moffitt Howell McKay, F.S.U.'s first royalty as Homecoming Queen of 1948, and Robert Urich with his wife Heather Menzies for the crowning of Cecil Howard as Chief.

Dorm Life

Though dormitories have some bad points, like never-ending noise and messy roommates, they still seem to be a very favorable alternative for many out of town students. The reason may lie in the fact that the dorms play a double role — they are both a place to call a home away from home and the center of social life for its inhabitants. Many events such as dances, barbeques, and intramurals are sponsored by dorm leaders and help the students to become familiar with others in their dorm as well as adding to the enjoyment of everyone.

Greek Life

Being a Greek is a style of college living that many students at Florida State choose. For them, the fraternity or sorority provides a great way to meet new people, belong to a national organization, have a lot of fun, and most of all, make new and lasting friendships and relationships with their own sisters or brothers, and also with other Greeks on campus.

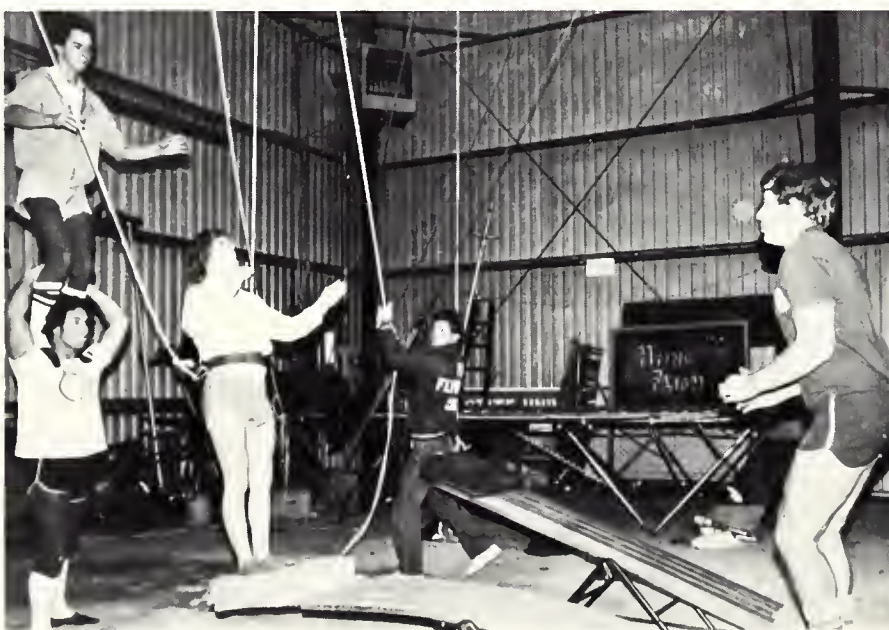

F.S.U. Students "Fly High"

"Make it, David!" "Goin' down!" "Over!" David Martin swings by his knees thirty feet above ground and catches Clay Morris in mid air. David and Clay are part of the only college circus in the United States — F.S.U.'s Flying High Circus. The circus has been a tradition at F.S.U. since faculty member Jack Haskings came from Illinois to start the circus in 1947. In 1964 they performed in major European cities and have since appeared on "CBS's Sports Spectacular" and "ABC's Wide World of Sports." These students, who receive no tuition, waivers or scholarships for their participation, must maintain a 2.8 average to be able to perform — their only reward is knowing that their talents are appreciated and enjoyed by their audiences. The top twenty-five performers receive the honor to spend three months in Callaway Gardens, a vacation resort in Pine Mountain, GA. During these three months the students have the chance to be the teachers during the day, then to perform at night.

The Flying High Circus held Legislature Night on April 30, the home performances on May 1, 2, 7, 8, and 9 under the direction of Richard (Dickie) Brinson, a former F.S.U. member himself who has led the troupe for the past nine years. Assistant directors Robert Donnelly, Mike Jenkins, and Margie Peters encourage and inspire the students to become the talented, popular and respected performers that they are.

"My family vacationed at Callaway Gardens for five years, and so I decided that one day I would be in the circus at F.S.U. Actually, I joined the circus to stimulate my body. And you know, it's only the girls that mess up!" — Doug "Tidwell" Austin, junior, business marketing.

"I joined the F.S.U. Circus last year as a sophomore after seeing one of the home shows. The best thing about the circus is the people that are in it, while the competition that I get from those people is the worst thing. Here it's different. I'm proud of being in the circus — I don't care what others think about it." — Lori Pitten, junior, advertising.

"My parents were in the Ringling Brothers Circus, so I guess it was in my blood. I've been in it since Fall '79, and it has really built my confidence. You are what you think you are, the audience feels what you feel. This is the first time that I've really worked for something and gotten it!" — David Martin, junior, P.E.

"I joined the circus four years ago for something extra to do. I used to get nervous when I was up performing on the Cloud Swing, Mexican or Double Trap. Now I think about making the people out there feel what I feel. The best thing is the friends I've made here but the worst thing is tearing down the tent and spreading the sawdust. My favorite word my first year was IMPOSSIBLE. Now I realize that nothing is impossible. My words of advice for anyone who would like to be in the circus is to come out, try it, and stick with it." — Teresa Seitz, junior, economics.

Union Life

The Oglesby Union maintained its position of center for socializing, eating, or studying on the benches in the sun. The benches were a new addition this year, built by the Youth Conservation Corps during the summer quarter. They also erected a stage for outdoor entertainment which was used by such groups as Slapstick in the early fall. The stage was also used by others. It was a place for groups or individuals to gather an audience to make a point, such as Jed and Cindi, who come to the Union to bring the word and law of God to students passing through. Oglesby Union also sparked talk of building a new union as it was built for 7,000 students and F.S.U. now has over 22,000 students currently enrolled.

Intermurals — Something for Everyone

While Intercollegiate athletics create a good deal of weekend excitement and are important on campus, the day-to-day competition of intramurals is an activity that can involve all students and many faculty and staff. The Intramural staff invites all students to participate in its action-packed sports program. Over twenty-five activities are offered, featuring both team and individual competition. The goal of this program is to offer each student the opportunity to participate, regardless of ability. Intramural activities include golf, swimming, tennis, volleyball, flag football, racquetball, softball, wrestling, basketball, soccer, bowling, track and field and many other popular sports.

Intermurals

FADS in the early 80's

Fads in 1980-81 brought several changes in dress and entertainment, some which affected thousands of students, while some affected only a handful. In dress for women came the return of the classic look — a blazer, straight skirt and pumps, and a bermuda-length shorts comeback. For both men and women came an overalls rush — a style delayed from Paris. The men went macho this year with the western look — a cowboy hat, blue jeans and leather boots.

Then in entertainment we had the Rocky Horror Picture Show — and audience — participation cult, and rollerskating and skateboarding through campus. Punk Rock also found its way to Florida State, which allowed students to bring out the most bizarre part of themselves through their non-conforming dress and dance. Also in 1980-81 came dorm wall murals and a crew-cut revival.

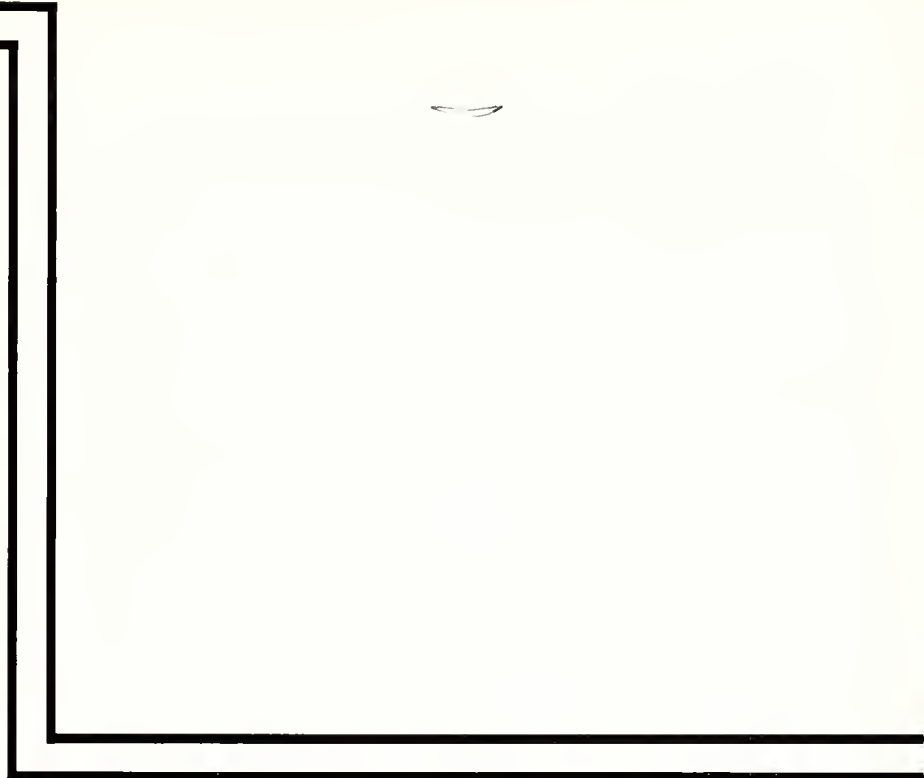

Night Life

F.S.U. students need their night life just as much as any other college student to top off a long hard week of classes, lectures, and exams. It might be Friday night at the Phyrst, Bullwinkle's and Ken's, then Saturday night at Poor Paul's, Everybody's and Big Daddy's. Or maybe it's just a middle-of-the-week drink break at the Subway or dinner at Brown Derby. Night life provides students with the chance to relax, have a drink with a friend, and forget about the Accounting test Monday morning.

Doomesday

Due to a law passed in May of 1980, the drinking age in Florida was raised from 18 to 19 years of age. This law took effect on October 1, 1980, passing with the intention of getting alcohol out of the high schools. This though, has also affected most college freshmen. The day before the law took effect was known as "Doomesday" as all the soon-to-be-"doomed" 18 years olds took advantage of the many specials that local merchants offered especially for them. At 12 midnight, the 18 year olds had to leave the bars to patiently await the coming of their 19th birthdays.

As a diversion to the daily routine of classes, many Florida State students spent their leisure time participating in the wide range of sport activities available to them on campus. From pinball to football one could find a sport that suited his or her fancy. Among the more popular were racquetball, skating, and jogging. For the less spirited at heart, simply laying out in the sun or a walk around campus was a pleasant way of spending their leisure time.

Leisure at F.S.U.

Leisure time activities at F.S.U. have spared many a student from spending too much time with the books. Most everything from parachuting to rollerskating through campus can be seen, especially on the weekends. Some other popular leisure activities include a day at the reservation sailing, canoeing, swimming, or just taking a picnic out and enjoying the sunshine or relaxing at the union pool after a dull, dreary week of studying.

Academics

Dr. Bernard F. Sliger: A Man of Experience

Any student can tell you of the hard work involved in attending a college, yet only one man on our campus could tell you of the difficulties involved in overseeing the entire university. That man is Dr. Bernard F. Sliger.

Ever since February of 1977, Dr. Sliger has had the job of insuring the progress and success of Florida State University. Dr. Sliger is the tenth president of FSU.

Prior to his appointment as president, Dr. Sliger was a member of the faculty and administrator at Louisiana State University. While there, he organized the Louisiana Coordinating Council for Higher Education, which supervises the state's universities. Once at Florida State, President Sliger was a Vice President and director of the London Study Center. As President of the University, President Sliger oversees academic, financial, athletic, and public relations matters.

Yet President Sliger isn't limited to purely University matters. Having earned a Ph.D. in economics at Michigan State, Dr. Sliger is something of an expert in the area of economic theory and public finance. Dr. Sliger has often served as a consultant for different organizations and volunteers his services to the State and Tallahassee Chambers of Commerce. Dr. Sliger is always somehow active in the community.

Even though President Sliger is a man of activity, he always has time for students. He is a man of dedication, a man of ability, a man of experience.

In Memoriam ...

Dr. Robert O. Lawton

Since 1949, Dr. Robert Lawton extended his services and abilities to Florida State University. By 1977, Dr. Lawton held the second highest administrative position, that of Vice-President of Academic Affairs. He proved to be one of the best qualified to meet the major academic needs of the students. His dependability for noteworthy decision making will long be respected and remembered.

Dr. Lawton became the Dean of Arts and Sciences in 1966 after 17 years as an unquestionably dedicated faculty member of the English department. His notable persistence and individuality proved a refreshing combination for a person in such a position as he. Such qualities were instrumental for his advancement to Vice-President of Academic Affairs.

As an Elizabethan and Shakesperean specialist, Dr. Lawton demonstrated his ability for writing in his text on playwright Francis Beumont. His professional alliances included memberships with the Modern Language Association, the South Atlantic Language Association, the Shakesperean Association of America, and the Kappa Honorary.

Dr. Lawton possessed the true spirit of education. His compassion and dedication shall truly be remembered by those he worked with and us here at Florida State.

DR. JAMES HAYES

As Dean of Students, Dr. Hayes job includes meeting the needs of the students. His office provides personalized help for students and student organizations by maintaining liaison with campus ministries, by coordinating special student programs, helping with withdraws and personal records, and by interpreting the student conduct code.

DR. ROBERT JOHNSON

Dr. Robert Johnson, provost for graduate studies and research, has the responsibility of giving emphasis to FSU's mission as a principal center of graduate work. He controls the computer center, Nuclear Services, and the Florida Resources and Environmental Analysis Center, as well as supervising many other programs.

DR. STEPHEN WINTERS

Dean Winters, a professor of geology, is the FSU Dean of Basic Studies. Dean Winters adds his talents to the many incoming Freshmen at summer orientation. His bow-tie along with his jokes and his way with people make the transition easier for the incoming Seminoles.

Aside from teaching geology, Dean Winters also directs the Honors Program. His many involvements include: faculty advisor to PHI ETA SIGMA; advisor to Garnet and Gold Key, faculty secretary to Omicron Delta Kappa, academic advisor to the Delta Zeta sorority, and advisor to Alpha Phi Omega.

Dr. Robert Gilmer:

1981 Robert O. Lawton Distinguished Professor

Dr. Robert Gilmer, professor of mathematics, is the 1981 Robert O. Lawton Distinguished Professor and the 24th member of the University faculty to receive this tribute.

The award this year was named for the late vice president for academic affairs, who was a member of the faculty and administration for 31 years before his death on Oct. 8, 1980. In addition, past recipients also were designated Lawton Distinguished Professors by Dr. Daisy Flory, acting vice president for academic affairs. President Bernard Sliger presided at the May 27 ceremony in Opperman Music Hall.

Gilmer, a member of the Florida State faculty since 1963, was nominated for the Distinguished Professorship by his colleagues on the math faculty. This is the highest honor the faculty can afford one of its members and carries with it an honorarium of $2,000.

In addition, Dr. R. H. Bing, professor of mathematics at the University of Texas at Austin, wrote in support of Gilmer:

"It is no secret that Texas tried very hard to entice Gilmer to join our department, but through the years he had developed such a strong allegiance to Florida State, that he declined to move. Our failure was your good fortune."

Following the award ceremony, a reception honoring the 1981 Distinguished Professor was held in Longmire Lounge.

Mrs. Robert O. Lawton was an honored guest at both the ceremony and the reception.

The past recipients of the award, many of whom were present for the naming of the Lawton Distinguished Professor, made a donation in memory of Dr. Lawton to Strozier Library. Distinguished Professor of English George Harper, who once shared an office with Dr. Lawton, made the presentation of a rare first folio copy (dateline, London 1647) of "Comedies and Tragedies" by Francis Beaumont and John Fletcher.

Live, Love, and Laugh in London

Big Ben, Trafalgar Square, and Buckingham Palace are a few of the historic sights one can see when studying in London. F.S.U.'s London Studying Center provides a home base for students desiring to broaden their perspectives by pursuing studies in a foreign country.

The center occupies one of the old buildings of the Maria Assumpta College. The program offers courses in theatre and government. Also, education and government majors can finish their internship in London.

The schedule consists of a 3-day week: Monday, Tuesday, and Thursday which allows the students to travel on weekends. Also, the students have a 1-week break in the middle of the quarter to go on extended tours. Students visit pubs, theatres, monuments, and museums throughout London.

Education and fun are combined to make the London program an exciting adventure.

St. Mark's Square, the Vatican, and Roman ruins are on the agenda for Florence bound students. The students live with families in Florence which enables the students to experience the Italian culture.

The Florence center offers courses in Art, Italian, Literature, History, and Humanities. A special effort to integrate courses into the Florentine environment is made by the staff.

The quarter ends early in Florence so the students can explore Italy and other countries on their own.

However, every quarter the program does plan special field trips and tours for the students.

F.S.U.'s Panama Canal Branch is located on the Pacific side of the Isthmus of Panama, at Albrook Air Force Base. The program has provided undergraduate education for members of the U.S. Armed Forces since 1957. The branch has also included Panamanian and U.S. civilians who make up 45 % of the student population.

The program offers majors in Business, English, International Affairs, Social Science, and Spanish. About 500 students enroll each quarter in courses taught by 8 resident teachers and 4 rotating faculty from Tallahassee. Last year the commencement ceremonies were attended by President Sliger.

School of Business

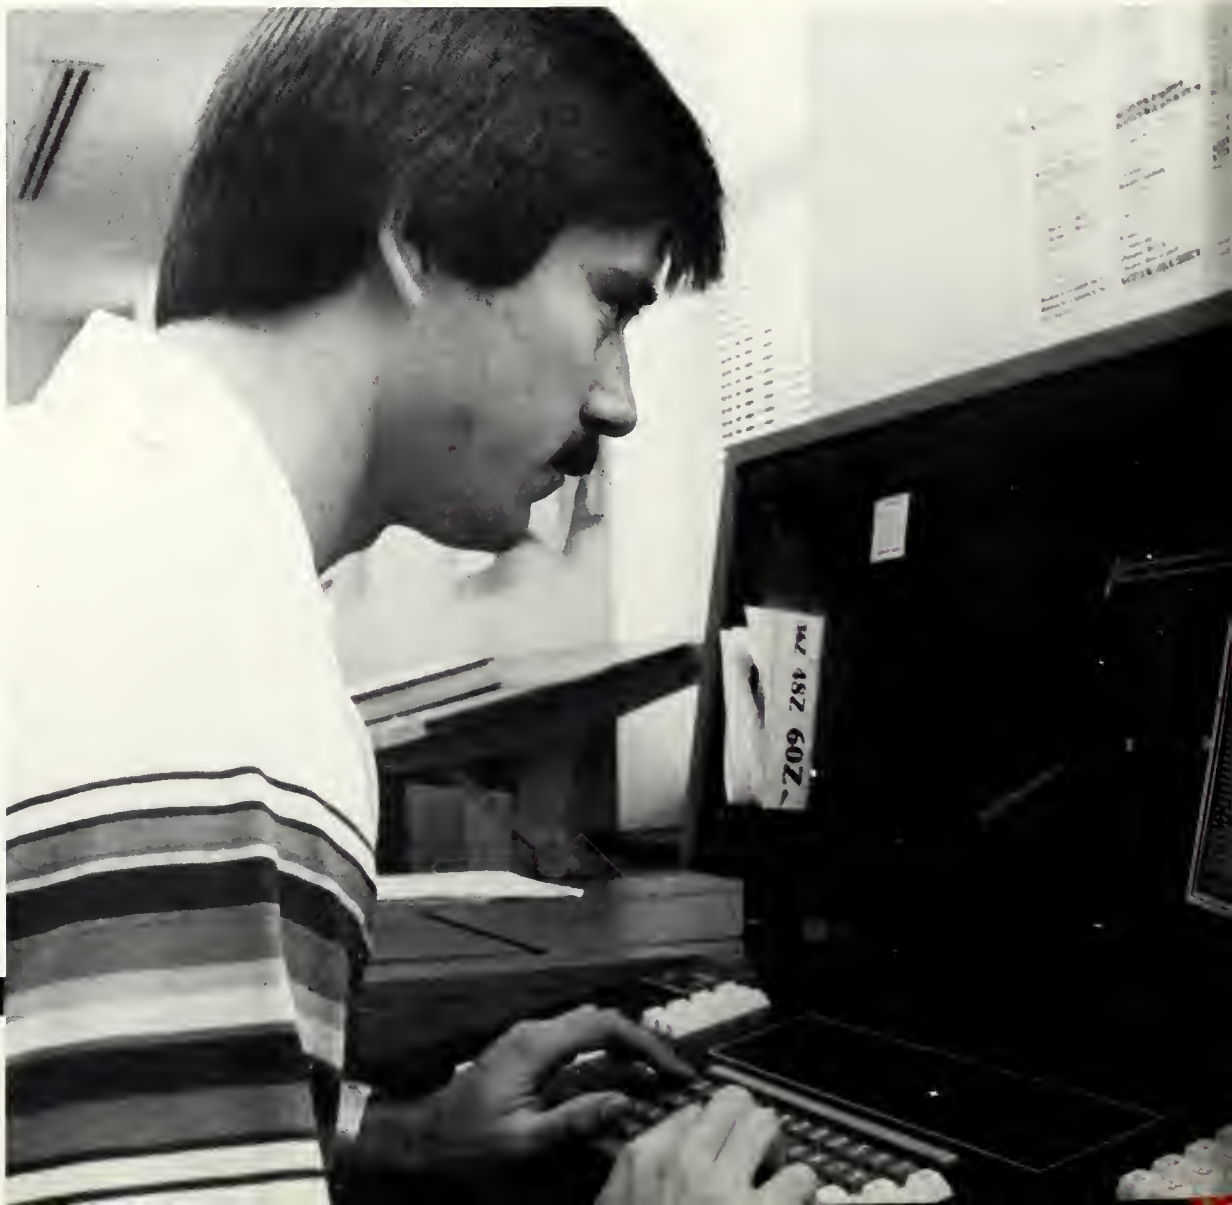

The Business building of FSU houses almost one hundred offices and classrooms, and a major portion of FSU's students. It serves as a symbol of excellence and prosperity. Under the leadership of Dr. Ray Solomon, the school prepares the student for the "outside world" or in a more general sense "the working world." It offers degrees in Accounting, Business, Business Law, Insurance, Marketing, Management, Finance and Real Estate. Because of its popularity it has become one of the largest schools at Florida State. Business and its organizations are instruments through which the goals of society are sought. Providing a viable, resilient education for those who will be leaders in this society is the major concern of the faculty at FSU's School of Business.

Dr. Theodore Clevenger, Dean

College of Communication

The College of Communication, under the direction of Dean Theodore Clevenger, Jr., is divided into two distinct areas of study.

First, the Department of Audiology and Speech Pathology provides students with training in the areas of language, speech and hearing. The department works closely with the Speech and Hearing Clinic of the Regional Rehabilitation Center on the campus of FSU. This clinic provides students with a place for observation, research in the Speech Science Lab, development of skills taught in the classroom and experience.

Secondly, the Department of Communications offers a wide, diversified curriculum to train students in human and mass communication. The department has its own radio and television stations. 91.5 FM provides a listening alternative of classical music, jazz and contemporary music. Channel 11, WFSU, is now considered one of the ranking public television stations in the Southeast.

Criminology

Dr. Eugene Czajkoski, Dean

"The School of Criminology is committed to equally blending theory and practice of criminology and, at the same time, to offering a variety of meaningful courses to those striving for a complete liberal education."

Dean Eugene Czajkoski

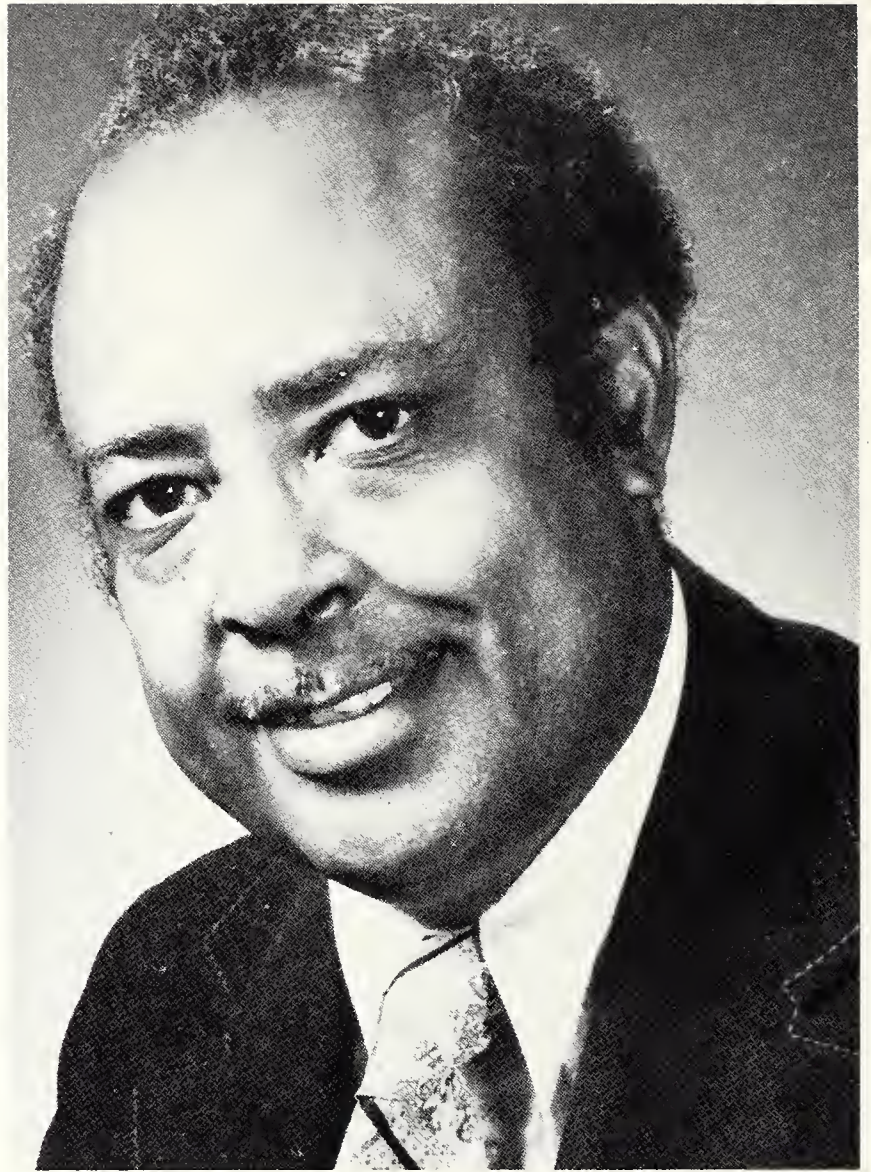

Any student enrolled in the School of Criminology can sense commitment almost instantaneously. Convinced that neither practice nor theory can stand alone, the school offers to the student a wide variety of criminology courses, along with internships, honors programs, and fellowships. For those interested in obtaining a degree in criminology, the school has the facilities to grant all degrees up to and including a Ph.D.

Commitment and dedication has earned the School of Criminology the honor of being ranked third in the nation for their program on the basis of prestige and scholastic ability. The Dean hopes to see the number of graduating students grow, an endowed professorship, a building solely for the school, and a program that will extend to the operating field of criminology. Commitment and dedication such as this has brought this to where it is today, and assures growth and improvement for tomorrow.

Education

The College of Education prepares students for professional roles in public education, business and industry, the military, and government. These roles include teaching, research, curriculum planning, materials production, counseling, policy and planning for educational systems, and the development of educational institutions. The College provides leadership in public education. It coordinates the Universities departments in an effort to develop and effect a balanced teacher education program.

College of Home Economics

Dean Margaret Sitton is the fearless leader of the College of Home Economics, whose goals are to provide the student with beliefs, knowledge, and creative abilities for effective family and community living, consumer competence, and use of resources.

The college is organized under the Department of Clothing and Textiles, Food and Nutrition, Home and Family Life and Home Economics Education.

Law

The college of Law went under great change this year as it received a new dean. On July 1, 1980, L. Orin Slagle, Jr. became the third dean of the FSU college of law. Slagel served as the dean of the Ohio State College of Law until 1978, when he resigned to become the Law School Admissions Council President. He remained President until his move to FSU in 1980. The college of law seeks those students with the dedication and determination to go forth in life. And the dedication pays off as Florida State provides top legal training to students. The College of Law is located in the Roberts Building, named after former Florida Supreme Court Chief Justice B. K. Roberts.

School of Library Science

The School of Library Science provides instruction, in the principles of librarianship to achieve its chief objective, the professional education of prospective librarians to serve in all types of libraries. The program confers only graduate degrees in library science, and offers study in the areas of reference, bibliography, cataloging, and classification.

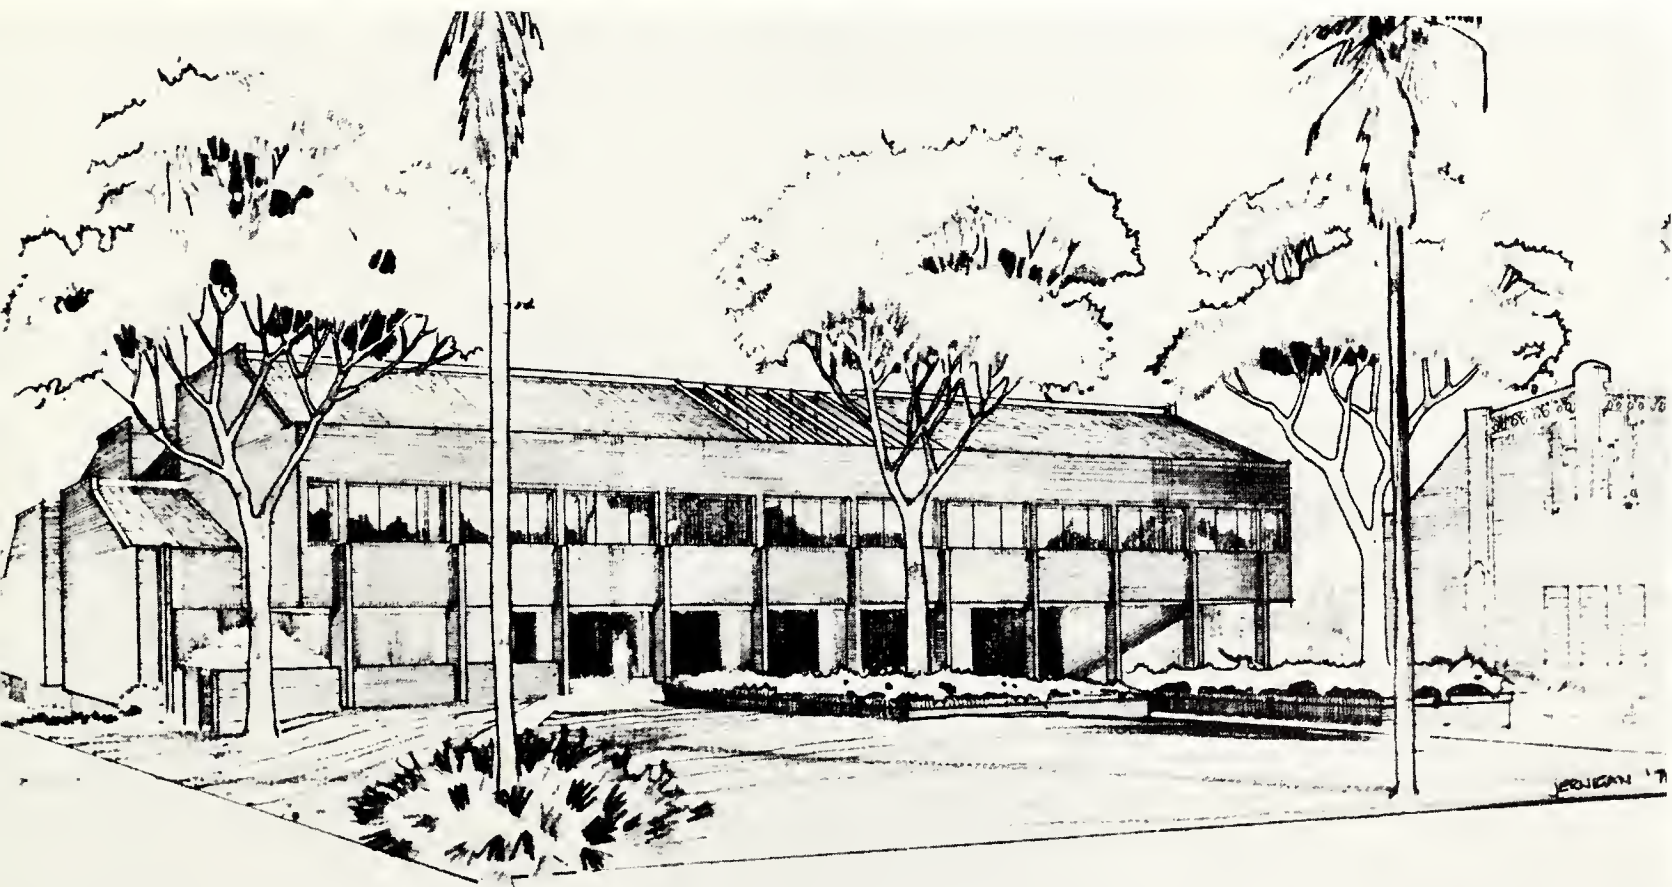

Dean Harold Goldstein and the faculty of the school believe information is important to the growth and prosperity of society. A librarian's job is to transmit this information through research and service.

The Library Science students of 1980-1981 watched patiently as a new building to facilitate their school was built where Magnolia Hall for men once stood.

School of Music

The School of Music provides instruction for all students who expect to become professional musicians: composers, performers, scholars, teachers, therapists. The School of Music, under the direction of Dean Robert Glidden, provides cultural services to the Tallahassee area through its Chamber Chorus, Chamber Orchestra, Choral Union, Collegians, Concert Band, Lab Band, Madrigal Singers, Marching Chiefs, Opera Chorus, Opera Guild, Opera Workshop, Percussion Ensemble, Jazz Pop Ensemble, University Singers, University Symphony, Wind Ensemble, and Women's Glee Club. The School of Music also offers a wide variety of programs for opportunities for the general student.

School of Nursing

The School of Nursing offers a four-year program which leads to a Bachelor of Science in Nursing. The program, which is 30 years old this year, is nationally accredited and is the second oldest in the state university system.

Dean Emilie D. Henning, who came to FSU in 1976, says "students receive practical experience in hospitals as well as community health agencies, such as the Developmental School, Refuge House, and the State Mental Hospital in Chattahoochee." Nursing students are also given the opportunity to practice basic nursing skills in the Procedural Lab. These skills include learning to help patients with bed transfers, restraints, and the use of crutches and walkers, and giving shots. These experiences, combined with the other required classes that the students take, "alters the romantic view of nursing and creates a true nursing atmosphere," according to Dr. Patricia A. Whiteside of the School of Nursing. By offering practical experience to the students, the School of Nursing prepares them for all types of hospitals and community nursing situations.

Dr. Warren Mizek, Dean

College of Social Sciences

The College of Social Sciences, under the direction of Dean Warren F. Mazek, is made of many programs and departments, which include: Economics, Geography, Government, Public Administration, Sociology, Urban and Regional Planning, Black Studies, International Affairs, Slavic and East European Studies, Marriage and the Family, Social Science Interdisciplinary Program, Pre-law, Institute for Social Research and Policy Sciences.

School of Social Work

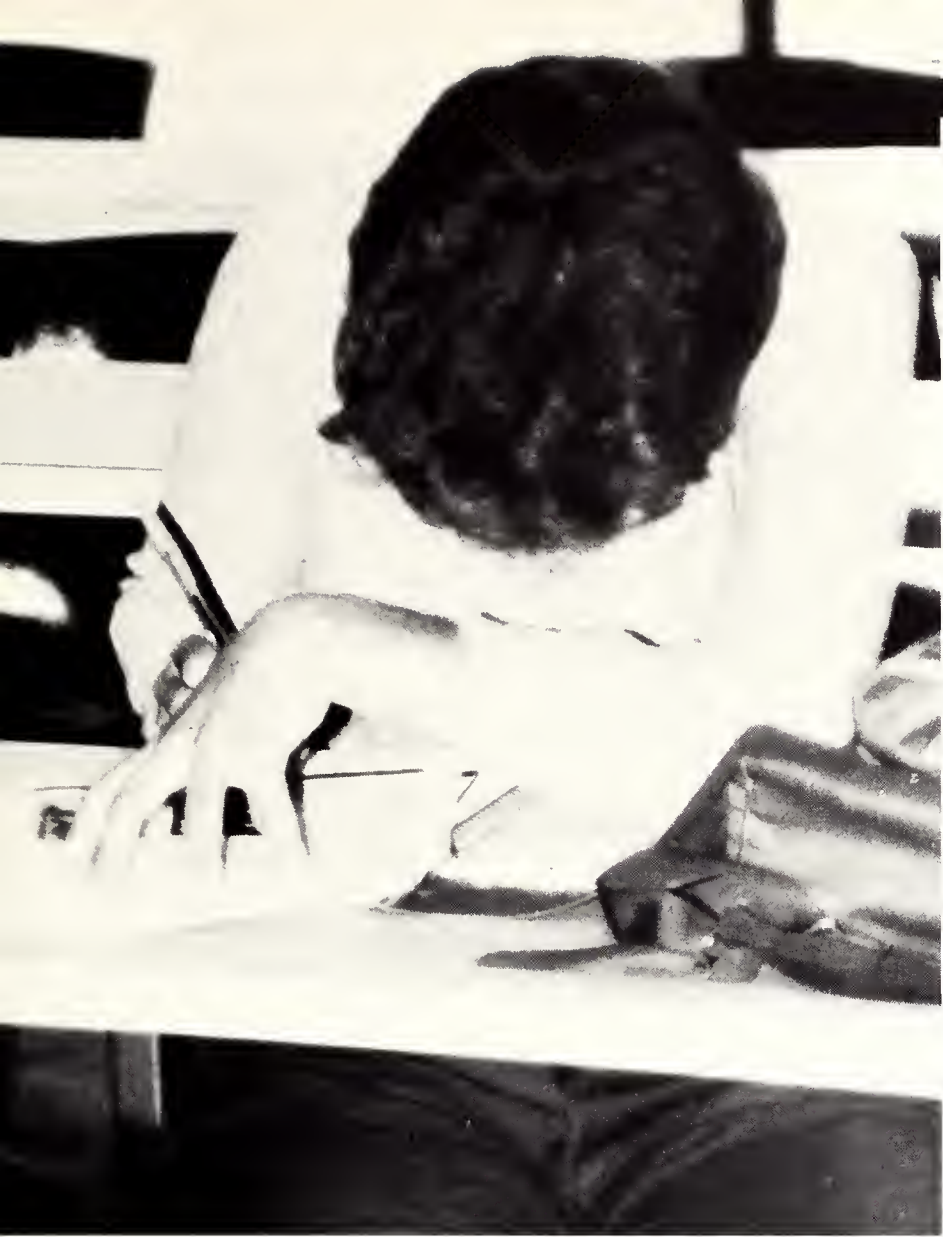

The basic goal of the School of Social Work is to provide the students with knowledge to better the place of social welfare in our society.

Under the direction of Dean Ray Bardill, the curriculum focuses on casework, group work and neighborhood community organization. This is supplied by a number of agencies and human service settings. Students in the School of Social Work may find themselves working in a juvenile home, or in the school systems. Interning helps the dedicated student develop his professional skills after he understands the place of social welfare in our society.

Dr. Donald Bardill, Dean

NATHANIEL F. BELLAMY BUILDING

School of Theatre

The School of Theater at Florida State offers B.S., B.F.A., M.A., M.S., and M.F.A. and Ph.D. degrees. The M.F.A. program is closely affiliated with the State Theatre of Florida, a professional resident repertory company at Sarasota, and students may take advantage of the London exchange program. The programs all serve to reach the three goals of the University: teaching, research, and service.

This year, the School of Theater awarded Burt Reynolds the Doctorate of Humane Letters for making major, significant contributions to the Southeast in general, and Florida State in particular. He was cited for his work in theatre education, and most notably, for establishing the Burt Reynolds Dinner Theatre in Jupiter, which provides students with experience in the field. Mr. Reynolds made a gift of a $600,000 endowment to the School of Theatre.

School of Visual Arts

The School of Visual Arts, J. L. Draper, Dean, offers a variety of programs in studio art, history and criticism.

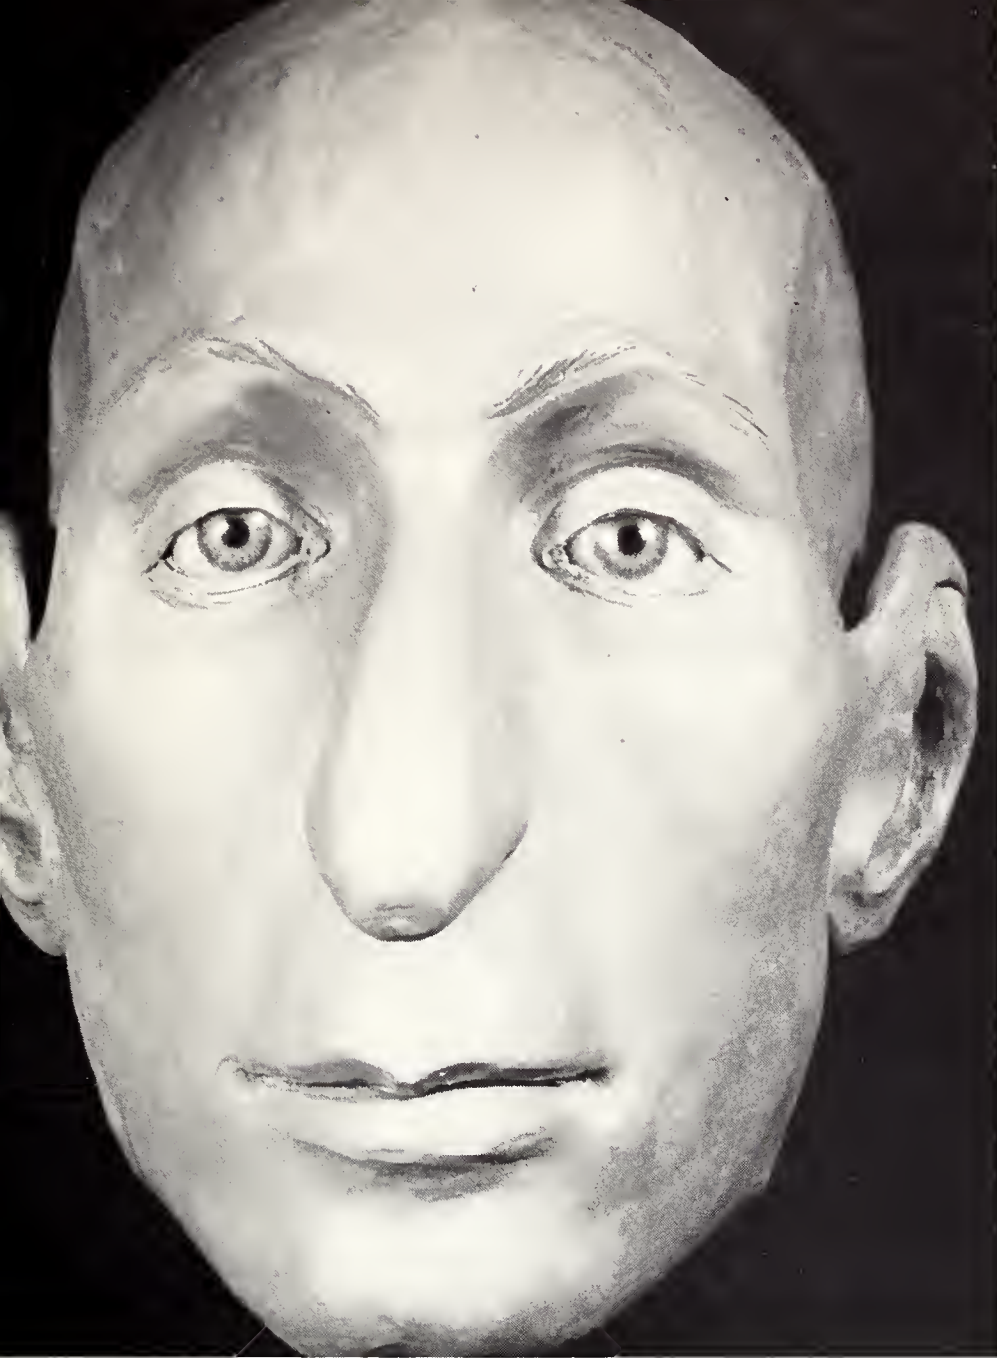

There are several divisions of the School of Visual Arts. The Department of Art Education and Crafts Design is responsible for preparation of art teachers in schools and the training of designer-craftsmen. The Department of Interior Design instructs the student in accordance with the emerging needs of society and the goals of the interior design profession. The Department of Dance is based on the premise that art and education are both extensions of the total humanistic endeavor. The dance student learns to reveal his desire to increase sensibilities, develop his own powers and to live his life fully.

The University Fine Arts Gallery serves as teaching grounds for art students, but also as a cultural center for the Tallahassee area. The Four Arts Center sponsors changing exhibitions and interpretive programs in the visual arts, music, theatre and dance.

"The Florida Unknown"

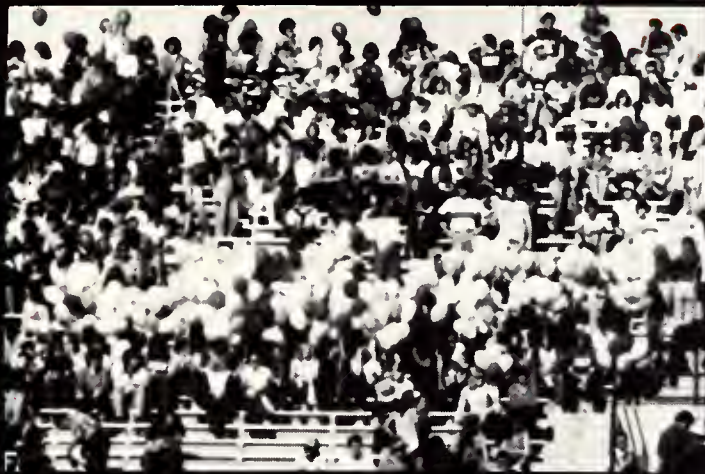

College of Arts and Sciences

The various departments of the College of Arts and Sciences are drawn together by a very dedicated man, Dean Werner A. Baum. The College's primary goal is the expansion of knowledge in those fields which have been found most valuable to human growth and well-being. It also supplies specialized knowledge for the student pursuing a career.

The college is comprised of eighteen departments, two institutes, and fourteen interdepartmental programs. It provides academic programs in the natural sciences and humanities.

Another One Bites the Dust

The 1980 football season can be only described in one word: AWESOME! The Florida State Seminoles, ranked 18th in the pre-season polls, exploded to end the season with a 10-1 record.

The Seminoles began the season with a bang by shutting out LSU 16-0 in Baton Rouge. They then played the next two games before the home town crowd, as they crushed foes Louisville 52-0, and East Carolina 63-7. However, the 18 regular game win streak was brought to a halt in Miami, when the Hurricanes upset the Seminoles 10-9. Refusing to be beaten, the Seminoles rallied to upset third-ranked Nebraska 18-14 in Lincoln. With this victory, the eyes of the nation turned to FSU as they faced the nation's third ranked team for a second straight week. This time the opponent was Pittsburg; and the result was the same — a Seminole victory, 36-22. Homecoming was another easy FSU victory, as they destroyed Boston College 41-7. The next two games were Seminole dominated outings, with FSU gliding past Memphis State 24-3, and Tulsa 45-2. They were 9-1 now, and had well deserved national status. They had received a major bowl bid, and there was but one obstacle remaining for the Seminoles to overcome: the Florida Gators. Before a record-breaking crowd at Doak Campbell, and millions who watched on national television, the Seminoles down 13-3 at half-time, rallied to beat the Gators 17-13.

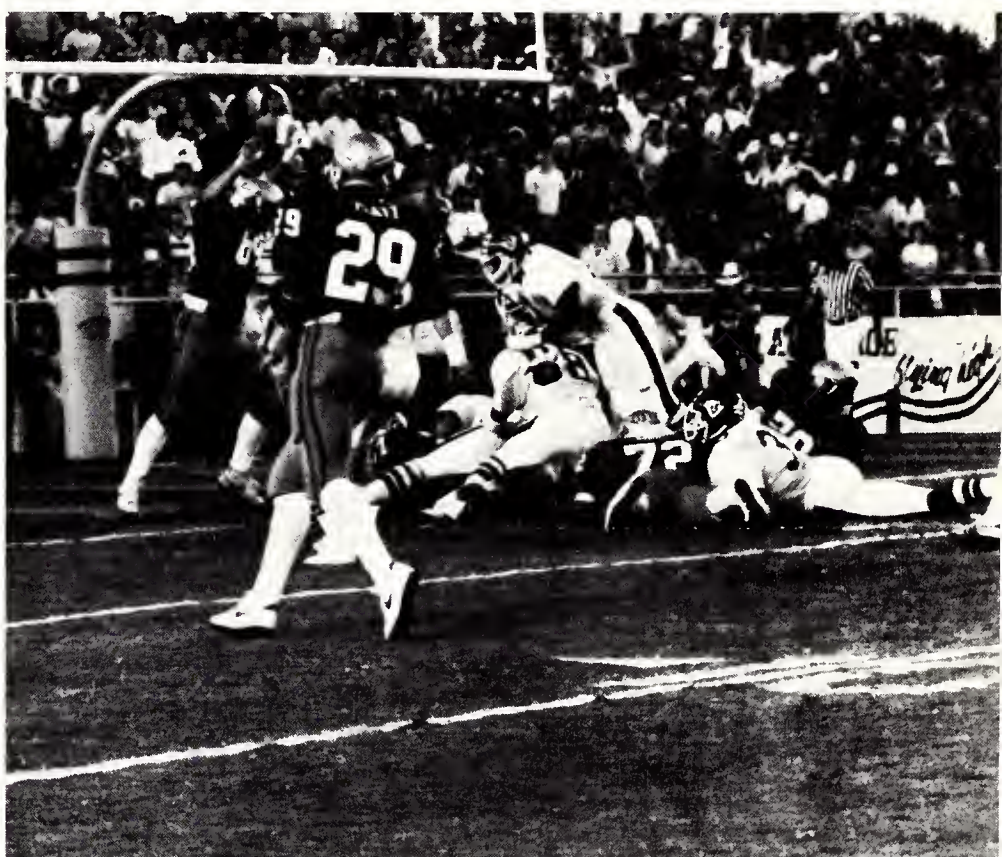

The entire team effort contributed to the success of the 1980 football season. FSU scored 352 points to their opponents' 85, with 104 of those being field goals.

Seminoles on the Rise

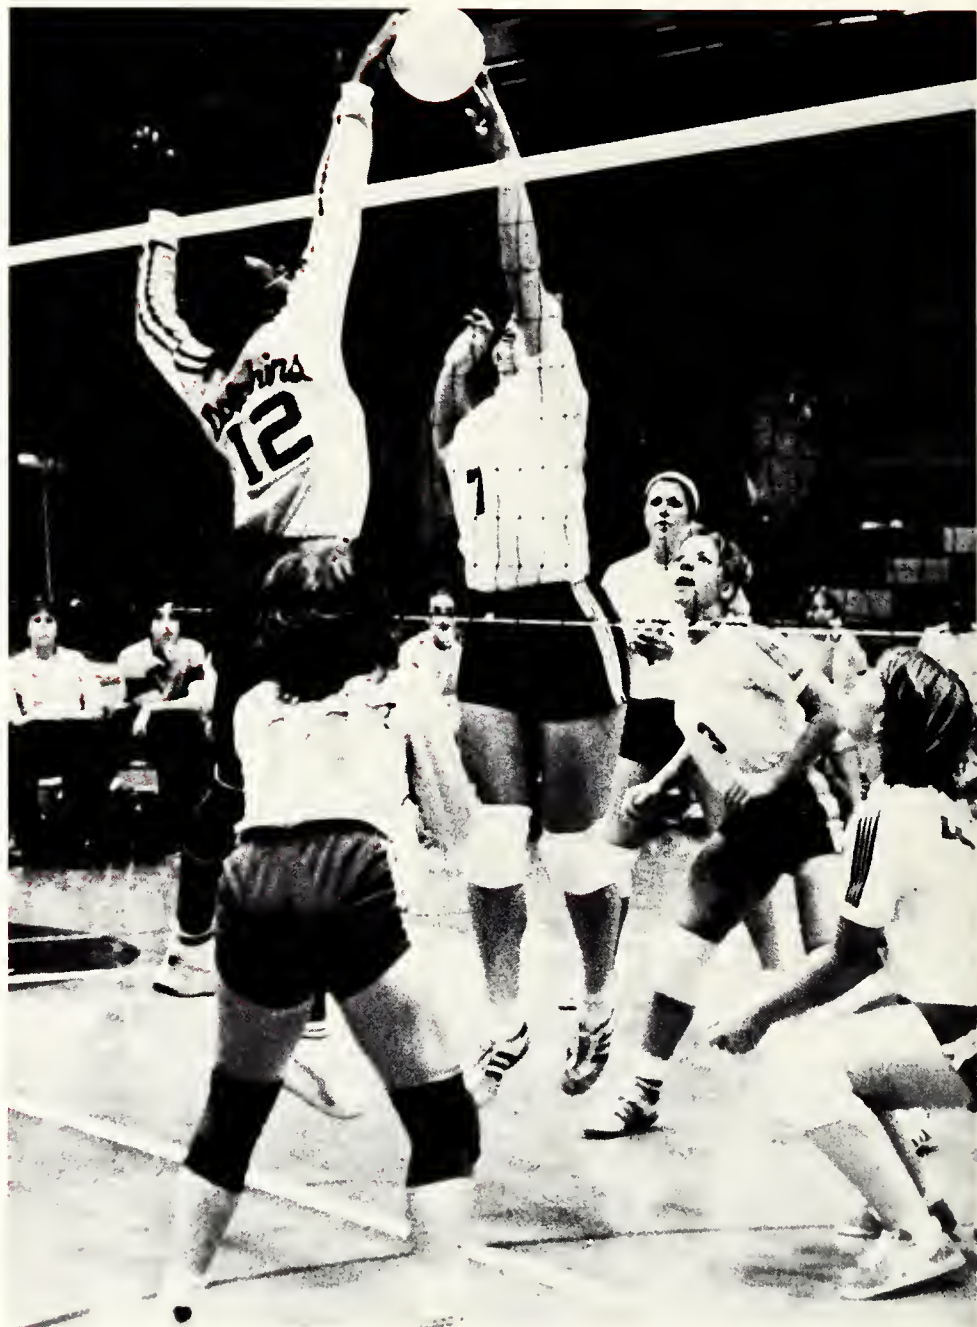

The Junior Varsity team worked hard this year to prepare its players for action in Varsity games. The Junior Varsity competed against other J.V. teams to practice and develop valuable skills necessary for effective varsity play. This experience develops many fine varsity players.

The volleyball team, under fifth-year coach Cecile Reynaund, recorded more wins than any other volleyball squad in Florida State history. When it was all over, the record stood at 43-14-1.

It became somewhat of a disappointing season as the team finished third in the regional tournament, missing nationals for the first time in three years. But even so, FSU had some things to smile about in 1980.

The squad finished first in the Jacksonville Invitational, second in the Metro Conference Tournament and Florida State Invitational and first in the state tournament.

The squad's starting lineup had only two seniors in it — co-captains Margie Wessel and Nancy Townsend. It will be an experienced team that returns next season to try to regain the region crown.

1980 was an outstanding year for the Florida State track and field team. Head Coach Dick Roberts advanced his already impressive record by guiding the team to a 9-0 finish.

In just three years, he has changed the image of Florida State from an average, run of the mill collegiate track team to one of national respect.

A repeat performance as Metro Indoor champs was followed by a fourth consecutive Metro outdoor title, a 12th place finish at the NCAA indoor championships, and a third place finish in the NCAA outdoor championships.

The season saw eleven athletes earn 17 All-American Awards, including national champions in two events.

On the Right Track

The Lady Seminole Track and Field Team made their presence felt at the nationals under the direction of a new head coach. With an impressive record following him, Head Coach Robert Smith came to FSU from the University of Wyoming and got a strong start on the season by recruiting top notch talent. Coach Smith felt his team had good depth but showed it's strength in the sprinting and hurdling teams.

Last fall, the team finished first in three major meets and climaxed the season with a first place regional finish. Florida State won the Alabama, Florida State, and Florida Invitationals and finished fourth in the Furman Invitational.

The indoor and outdoor schedules were geared toward the Texas Relays, AIAW Nationals, and the AAU Nationals. The major intention of the season was to prepare for these meets and the Lady Seminoles did a fine job as they returned from the Nationals in Seattle, Washington with a 21st place finish.

The men's cross country team continued their reign as Metro Conference Champs. Head Coach John Brogle, in his fourth season at Florida State, felt his "young, but experienced squad" would qualify for the NCAA championships. The coming year also looks good since none of the nine lettermen are seniors.

The women's cross country team, which finished 22nd in the nation last season, worked to improve that mark. New Head Coach Roger Smith was committed to the goal of producing a national caliber program at Florida State.

Florida State Basketball Is . . .

A winning season was again the trademark of FSU head coach Jow Williams and the Florida State basketball team in 1980-81.

The Seminoles finished the season 17-11 and earned a second place finish in the Metro Conference Tournament.

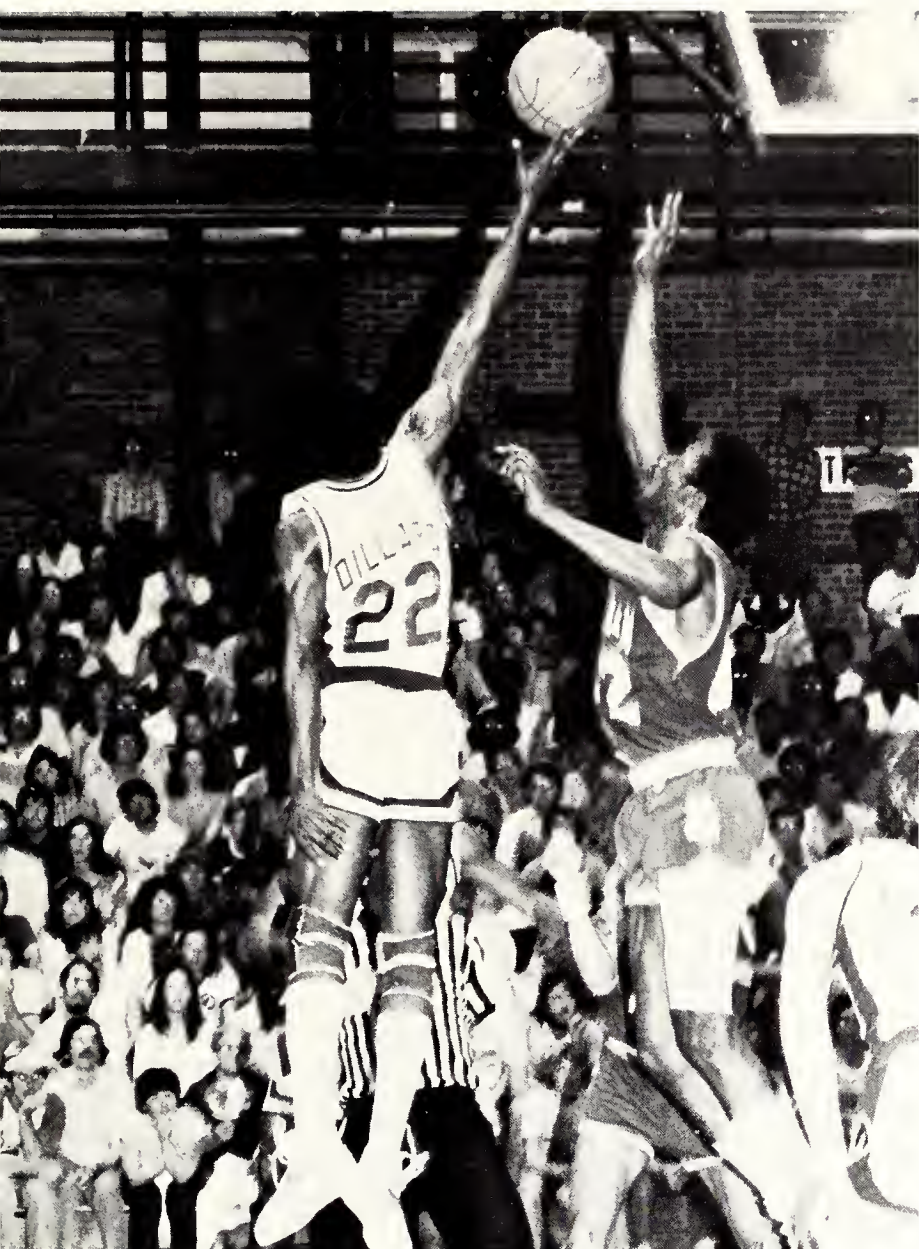

Highlights of the year included a victory over Florida at Gainesville, a sweep of Metro foes Memphis State and Tulane and a victory in the final game ever played at Tully Gym over in-town rival Florida A & M. Florida State also won the inaugural Cotton States Basketball Tournament held in Atlanta. The Tribe opened the tournament with a win over nationally ranked Missouri, and then captured the title with a two-point last-second win over then undefeated Georgia.

Stars in the season included guard Mickey Dillard, center Elvis Rolle and forwards Kris Anderson and James Bozeman. Dillard, the Seminole leader in points scored, free throw percentage, assists and steals set an FSU record in games played and finished second all-time in points scored. Rolle was the second leading scorer on the team and led the cagers in rebounds. Both Dillard and Rolle were chosen to participate in the Aloha Classic in Hawaii and both are expected to be selected high in the NBA draft. Anderson, a four year Seminole player was fourth in scoring barely missing a 1,000 point career. Bozeman returned to the FSU lineup after recovering from a torn achilles tendon and finished third in points scored. Other stars of the 1980-81 campaign included Bobby Parks, Rodney Arnold, Oren Gilmore, Fernell Tookes, Derek Grooms, Greg Collinsworth and Ed Young.

Womens Basketball Shoots for the Best

The womens basketball team, under second-year coach Janice Dykehouse, just missed having a .500 season. Instead, the squad finished at 14-15, bettering the previous year's record of 13-22.

Dykehouse's freshmen were her first full-fledged recruiting crop and they came through with positive indicators of what is to follow in the next few years.

Most evident in that class was Sue Galkantas, a 6-0 forward who personally rewrote much of the Florida State record book. Galkantas led the squad in scoring in 22 of the 29 games and finished the year out with a 21.6 ppg average, 19th in the nation and third among freshmen across the country. The freshmen also led the squad in rebounding (9.3) and was in assists (64).

Galkantas had help from junior Laine Lasseter (13.1 ppg, 5.6 rpg), who scored her 1,000 career point midway through the season, and sophomore transfer Lisa Foglio (12.7 ppg). Sophomores Glenda Stokes and Sunnie O'Neal rounded out the starting five.

Florida State shot well from the field and finished with 48 percent field goal accuracy. Over the 29-game schedule — the toughest ever attempted by a Florida State women's basketball squad — the Seminoles led their opponents in every statistical category but one (steals).

FSU received the number one seed in the state tournament after losing only one state game and winning seven others, but it dropped a first-round game to Miami when Foglio and O'Neal — the starting guard tandem — were unable to play in the tournament.

The 1980-81 season had a promising outlook for 4th year coach John Stafford and the mens swim team. Last year the team finished 5-5 and was plagued with the problems of inexperience and injuries. They have developed into a well balanced squad.

FSU belongs to the Metro Conference and has won the Conference's swimming championship the last three years. This year Coach Stafford has opted to compete as an independent in order to face stronger competition.

With only six seniors on the squad there's some fine swimming ahead for the Florida State swim team.

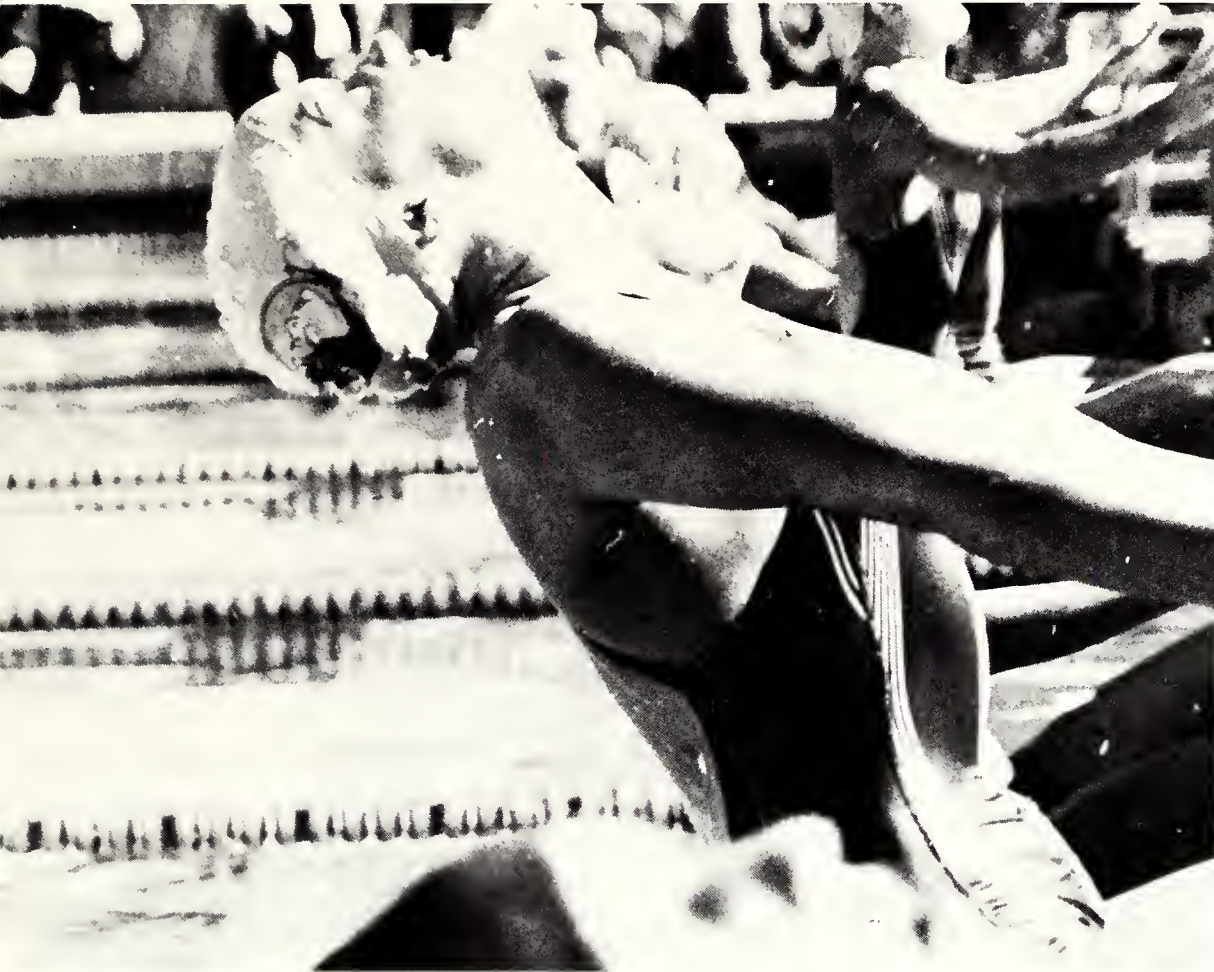

The 1980-81 schedule was one of the toughest a Seminole squad has ever faced. Trying to improve on last years 9-3 record Coach Terry Maul, who received Coach of the Year honors, set 3 goals for the lady swimmers — academic, educational, and performance. Since 1975 Coach Maul has compiled an impressive 35-16 record.

This years well rounded team faced opponents like Alabama, Georgia, Miami, South Carolina, and LSU as well as attending the Lady Husker Invitational out in Nebraska. An event they have won the last two years.

Seminoles Grand Slam to Victory

The Seminoles Baseball Team since 1948 has lived up to the tradition of "The Best College Baseball." Florida State has an excellent record, it has appeared in seven College World Series the last time in 1980. Florida State's baseball excellence is widely recognized around the nation.

For the Florida State Athlete, baseball truly has a year-round season. The mild Florida winters make it possible for the Seminoles to begin work upon arrival in the fall and continue thru June. Then a 60 to 70 game schedule begins in late February.

The Seminoles are supported by large enthusiastic groups of campus and community fans at nearly every game. But fan support does not stop with home game attendance, many follow the Tribe to away games as well. The Florida State Batgirls are also a great support to their baseball players.

Mike Martin was named Head Coach of Florida State baseball team in the fall of 1979. Martin played for Florida State in 1965 and 1966, establishing himself as an outstanding outfielder and twice was selected to the All-District Team.

His coaching records include several seasons as basketball and baseball coach at the junior high level, then a year as head basketball coach at Tallahassee Community College and finally a four-year stay as basketball coach at Godby High School.

While not being one of the most experienced teams to play at Florida State, the 1980-81 baseball team made it to the regionals in Miami, Florida.

Lady 'Noles Rack Up the Runs

The Lady Seminoles Softball team was on its way towards a strong, winning season this year. Anne Graf enters her third season as head coach for the Florida State Softball program. Graf has led her team to the FAIAW State Championship twice and had a second place finish at the AIAW Region III meet both years. The 1981 schedule was described by Graf as "the toughest since I've been coach at Florida State!" The Softball team lost seven letter winners from last season's state championship team, in which five were starters. To fill these vacant spots, nine newcomers' names were added to the 1981 roster. They fit right into the squad and were a big asset to the 1981 softball team's success.

Men's Golf Team — Has It Together

The FSU men's golf squad started the Seminole winning ways with a first place victory at the Gator Invitational. The team not only beat all the Southeastern Conference entrants, but also topped schools from the Atlantic Coast Conference, Big 10 and major independents. Individually, the Tribe had the first two finishers with Paul Azinger capturing top honors and Mike Grant second. In their own Seminole Invitational, the men had a rough first day trailing the field by six strokes. The squad regained its composure, roaring back to second place after 36 holes and finished the tournament at 861, three strokes behind winning LSU.

FSU men's coach Don Veller feels: "No individual had really dominated on our team. We've had balanced scoring all year long. What's encouraging is that we've beaten almost everyone — teams from the north, south, east, and west. We've won with walk-ons (Grant), long hitters (Azinger, Grant and Turner) and good putters (Paul Downes). This certainly is a fine team."

The Lady Seminoles started their winning ways with a first place showing at the Dick McGuire Invitational at Albuquerque, New Mexico. The squad shot a 919, the second lowest total ever. The victory was the first MAJOR tournament win in FSU women's golf history. Making the win even more impressive was that of the 18 teams participation, 11 had placed in the national AIAW Tournament last year. Individually, Michele Guibault shot a 218, tying the tournament record.

The next major victory came at the Lady Gator. FSU, one of 12 teams in the 18-team field that qualified for nationals, set a tournament record 889, seven strokes ahead of the old record. Lady Seminole Lisa Young set the individual tournament record, a 214 two-under par, breaking the old standard by FOUR strokes. The third major tournament win came at the Lady Paladin Invitational at Greenville, South Carolina. The women again broke all existing records on the way to the victory. The squad had the low 18, 36 and 54-hole total on the way to a record setting 887. Two Lady Seminoles broke the previous individual record. Guibault shot a course record 69 on the way to a record 214, and Marla Anderson shot a 218 breaking the previous record of 219 set by Nancy Lopeq and Betsy King.

The team also finished first in the South Florida Invitational, and third in the Betsy Rawls and Peggy Kirk Bell Tournaments.

While the men's squad is 6-9 with a little less than half the season remaining, some big wins and several fine individual performances have highlighted the year.

A straight set win over Valdosta State and a 7-2 win over state rival, Flagler were fine Seminole wins. The men netters also topped traditional power Purdue 8-1 and Jacksonville 7-2.

Individually, the Tribe has been led by Marco Abilhoa, Hernan Luque and No. 2 Metro singles champion John McLean. Under the tutelage of head coach Randy Jobson, the men netters will try to upset defending Metro Conference Champion Memphis State and win their first ever Conference title.

The Lady Seminoles jumped off to a 6-0 fall season and have earned a 21-12 mark with one match and the state tournament remaining.

Highlights of the season have been wins over Southeastern powers Georgia, Alabama, and Mississippi and victories over Jacksonville, Purdue, and Princeton. Possibly the highlight of the year was two victories over rival South Florida and a successful trip to Austin, Texas to compete in the Texas Invitational.

Top individuals have included new No. 1 seed Suzanne Dumare, a transfer from, Clemson, freshman Lisa Erhgott and Miami native Cheryl Cordes. Cordes along with junior Gigi Boesch lead the doubles combination. Under head coach Anne Cavis the women are looking to upset traditional state powers Miami and Florida.

FSU ONE TIME!

School spirit at FSU was at an all time high in this 1980-81 season, due in part to the Varsity cheerleaders. These fourteen young men and women worked diligently to achieve an excellent squad. In addition to cheering at all varsity football games and basketball games, they cheered at the Scalphunter's Bonfire, the Muscular Dystrophy Telethon, and several other functions for FSU.

The squad was chosen in the spring of 1980. They traveled to Virginia Tech in August for a week at camp, with other cheerleaders from all over the country. The FSU squad received all superior blue ribbons, and placed within the top ten squads in overall competition.

The cheerleaders have proven to be an important asset to FSU varsity sports, as well as the entire University. The 1980-81 Varsity Cheerleaders include: Phil Beasley (Co-Capt.), Beckie Baumgartner, Lisa Churchwell, Toni Guinyard, Karen Hall, Brian Hurd, Kelli Keltner (Capt.), Greg Klanjac, Jack Morey, Paul Morton, Jill Newsome, Mac Simmons, Clay Tison, Dixie Waller, and Dr. Bass serving as their advisor.

1. We want a touchdown. 2. Hey cutie, want to dance? 3. Brian and Karen putting on a show. 4. Cheerleaders build up spirit. 5. Jack and Becky give it all they've got.

5.

You've got to fight, fight, fight for FSU.
 You've got to scalp'em Seminoles.
 You've got to win, win, win, win this game and roll on down to make those goals.
 For FSU is on the warpath now and at the battle's end, she's great
 So fight, fight, fight, fight to victory, our Seminoles from Florida State.

SPIRIT LET'S HEAR IT

3.

Get Fired Up, Lady Seminoles!!

The Lady Seminole Cheerleaders have enhanced the sidelines for all women's sports this year. They cheered for Volleyball, Women's Basketball, and J.V. Football. Since the squad was chosen in October, they did not have an opportunity to attend camp. The Varsity Cheerleaders held a clinic for them, teaching stunts, dance routines, jumps, and cheers. The squad members are: Harry Bailey, Kim Bond, Carol Campbell, Rich Engle, Wendy Lord, Steve Monell, Jim Petrunger, and Shelia Stinson. Dr. Bass also serves as their advisor.

PEOPLE WATCHING

According to Webster's New World Dictionary, a FAN is: a fanatic; a person who is enthusiastic about a specified sport, performer, etc.

Athletics at FSU has received massive support from numerous areas. The fans range from enthusiastic alums and students, to celebrities and sportscasters. No matter how diverse, they all share one thing: the belief that FSU is Number 1.

The Scalphunters, a group of men and women who promote FSU sports by holding bonfires, pep rallies, and selling buttons and bumper stickers, were extremely active all year. They are sponsored by the Extra-Point Club.

The football coaches added a new flair to their recruiting this year with the Garnet and Gold Girls. These women, chosen by the team and coaches, escorted high school recruits and their parents around campus and Tallahassee prior to each home game.

Sol, better known as FSU's Number 1 Fan, was always seen at games and around campus. In addition to selling numerous buttons and bumper stickers, he was also a great asset to the cheerleaders. Who can imagine a game without Sol on the sidelines cheering on the Noles?

The newest addition to the basketball scene was the Golden Girls Dance team. They added a spark to halftime, as well as giving fans even more to cheer about.

Although only a few have been mentioned, there are countless others who have contributed to Athletics at Florida State this year, and it's to each person who considers himself a Seminole Fan that these pages are dedicated. So, get out there and cheer your hearts out because Sports at FSU would not be here if it weren't for you!

... ON A SATURDAY AFTERNOON

THE BALLAD OF: BOBBY BOWDEN

Florida State has compiled a 21-3 record over the last five seasons, but what many believe to be the most important victory didn't even come on a game day. The date of this "Win" was November 29, 1987, when head football coach Bobby Bowden signed a non-exclusive, non-binding letter of intent to become head coach for FSU. Bowden's coaching career is a story of success and adversity. Bowden's story is a story of a man who has built a football program of his own making. At the time, he was the hottest commodity on the coaching ranks. Just remember this: (1) the Tribe has participated in the Orange Bowl; (2) FSU has become the 1987 regular season ranked team in both the Associated Press and the United Press International Top 20 polls; (3) in addition to two national TV appearances for the Orange Bowl, the Seminoles have also appeared on TV six other times; (4) at the conclusion of the '80 campaign no less than five of the Tribe players had earned at least one first team All-American honor. The list of credits could continue, but the point should be quite clear — the FSU football program, which experienced a three-year record of 4-28 between 1973 and 1975, has clearly turned the corner. Following each of the last two seasons his coaching efforts have been cited on a national level. After the 11-0 record of '79, ABC-TV and Channel 9 named him their "Division I-A Coach of the Year." After last season, the American Sports Illustrated Council picked him for its "Bobby Dodd Coach of the Year Award." He has been the Associated Press Southern Independent Coach of the Year in the last four seasons. Those who have followed Bowden's coaching career are not surprised he has brought success to FSU. Bowden was no stranger to the football fans of Tallahassee. He had been an assistant on the Bill Peterson staffs of the early 1970s. He then left for an assistantship at West Virginia, before returning to Morgantown, W.Va. But when FSU's situation was a nosedive, he agreed to coach southern football. Bowden's coaching philosophy is quite simple. "It's all in blocking and tackling. Everything else in this game is irrelevant, blocking and tackling will cause wins." He also believes in enthusiasm and discipline. "I believe in discipline and enthusiasm in everything you do in life, and you coach what you believe," he says. "If we can be enthusiastic in the little things we do, it will carry over to a winning season." Bowden is more than just a football coach. He is a deep religious individual, who speaks often to church groups throughout the state. Bowden also published his autobiography, "Bobby Bowden: A Life of Glory," Born on November 8, 1929, Bowden attended Woodlawn High School in Birmingham. He was a Little All-American quarterback at Samford University, where he earned a bachelor's degree. He later received a master's from Peabody College. He and his childhood sweetheart, Julia, have three children: C. Bowden, Bobby Bowden is truly our #1 Seminole man.

ALUMNI COUNCIL

The Alumni Council is composed of three officers which were elected by the student body as a whole in the Fall academic quarter. These officers included the Senior Class President — Kevin S. Sanders; Senior Class Vice-President — Donna Abood; and Senior Class Secretary/Treasurer — Cynthia Boykin. The Alumni Council works with the Alumni Affairs Office in the Longmire Building. Bob Shackleton, Director of Alumni Affairs, acts as the council's advisor. This year the Alumni Council held a reception for the graduating seniors at Dr. Sligers home along with a Senior class dance the night before graduation entitled "Hoe-Down." The Alumni Council has tried to give this year's graduating seniors the recognition they earned and a few benefits they deserved.

Organizations

“WE THE STUDENTS ...”

The 1980-81 Student Government was involved in many activities throughout the year, such as meetings, debating, representation in committees and of course, listening to students' complaints. Whether there was a problem of room space or money, Student Government heard them all and often there weren't enough hours in a day to handle all of them. President Rob Auslander was also working on a plan to add an extra hour to each day!

At the base of Student Government are the student elections, but FSU students must not have been aware of this because there was a poor voter turnout this year. Composed of about four parties, the elections were held in the Fall. The campus became overcrowded with posters, slogans, promises and even parties. During this year's election, Security was the prominent issue. The Student Government has worked on solving this problem by providing more and better lighting and by installing call boxes throughout campus. The once Greek escort service has been transferred to Student Government where it has been vastly improved and readily available. Also this year, the Student Government Lecture Series was reestablished with speakers including G. Gordon Liddy and Nikki Giovanni. The Student Government Awards Banquet, the course evaluation booklet and big name concerts were other factors that made 1980-81 successful not only for Student Government, but for Florida State University students as well.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Dear Students,

Serving as Student Body President of Florida State University has been a great honor this past year. Although the job has numerous demands and pressures, one does get great satisfaction in representing the student body.

During the year, I have served Florida State in many capacities. I have participated not only as a Board member of the United States Students Association, but also as Chairman of the Florida Students Association. These positions allowed me to broaden my knowledge regarding students' needs and concerns throughout the state as well as the nation.

I hope that your future years at Florida State prove to be as enjoyable and as profitable as mine have been. Best of luck —

Rob Auslander

BSU

Now in its 12th year, the Black Student Union has become the campus-wide organization representing the Afro-Americans of FSU. This Black cultural center responds to the educational and cultural needs of black students. Through varied programs, the BSU strives to improve the educational, social and political environment among all black students. The BSU also provides leadership resources for acquainting the faculty with the many possible services that may increase the chances for success among minority students. They also have developed and coordinated programs of supportive educational services which assists in the identification and recruitment of black students. Through its extensive cultural programming and Black History Week, the BSU has increased the awareness of Afro-American heritage as well as enhanced inter-cultural exchange. This awareness was most evident during the BSU's celebration of the birth of Dr. Martin Luther King in the Winter of 1981.

In being devoted to education as the means for developing a more secure community, black students have found the BSU to be an ideal organization for developing leadership skills and the techniques of institutional change. Membership in the BSU is open to all interested students.

A fraternity gives a male student at a University, friends and brothers to help him through the rough years of undergraduate studies. A fraternity may also give a young man the experience in leadership which he may never have had in the past. This experience and responsibility involved in a fraternity is also very useful in preparation for the business world.

The 22 fraternities at FSU feel that with a 21,000 student population, one can become merely a number. A fraternity offers an identity in a large school. Fraternities combine old passed down traditions as well as modern innovative programs which benefit each member. There are also socials, weekends, Rush parties, Greek Week and Homecoming activities to enjoy. However, the most important aspect of fraternity life is brotherhood. Friends which one can confide in, discuss problems with and share successes. The role of IFC, Inter-fraternity Council, is to coordinate Greek activities so they will benefit each and every fraternity member. The IFC also serves as representatives of the male Greek life.

Sororities provide a significant lifestyle alternative at FSU. They offer a home to live in and a sort of structure for both the academic and social side of college life. Each chapter stresses academic achievement plus a wide variety of inner and outside activities. Some of the Greek activities include: philanthropy projects, intramural competition, the Sigma Chi Derby fundraising week, exchange dinners and socials. The sisterhood of a sorority lasts far beyond the years of college and those few years spent as an active member are those most treasured. It is the learning, the growing and the reaching out which gives such a group of young women their closeness. There is something to learn from each of the sisters as well as the Greek women who are campus leaders. The Panhellenic Council is comprised of women from all of FSU's 16 sororities. It is the main body which governs and coordinates all the Greek activities and works in cooperation with the National Panhellenic Council. The Panhellenic Council represents all of sorority life at FSU.

MARCHING CHIEFS

The Marching Chiefs' reputation as one of the nation's finest collegiate marching bands continues to grow. The pride of Florida State is made up of over 300 bandsmen including two feature twirlers, a corp of majorettes and flag girls. Every school and college in the University is represented in the Marching Chiefs. For over a quarter of a century the Marching Chiefs have been providing Florida State football fans with musical and marching entertainment. Since their beginning back in the early 1950's, the name "Marching Chiefs" has been synonymous with colorful, fast-paced shows with music to satisfy all types of listeners. In addition to the Chief's performance at home games and several road contests, their past national and regional television appearances have helped to bring the Chiefs into the homes of millions.

Membership requires total dedication, maximum effort and involvement in all aspects of marching, playing and performance. The Marching Chiefs are open to all students, especially non-music majors.

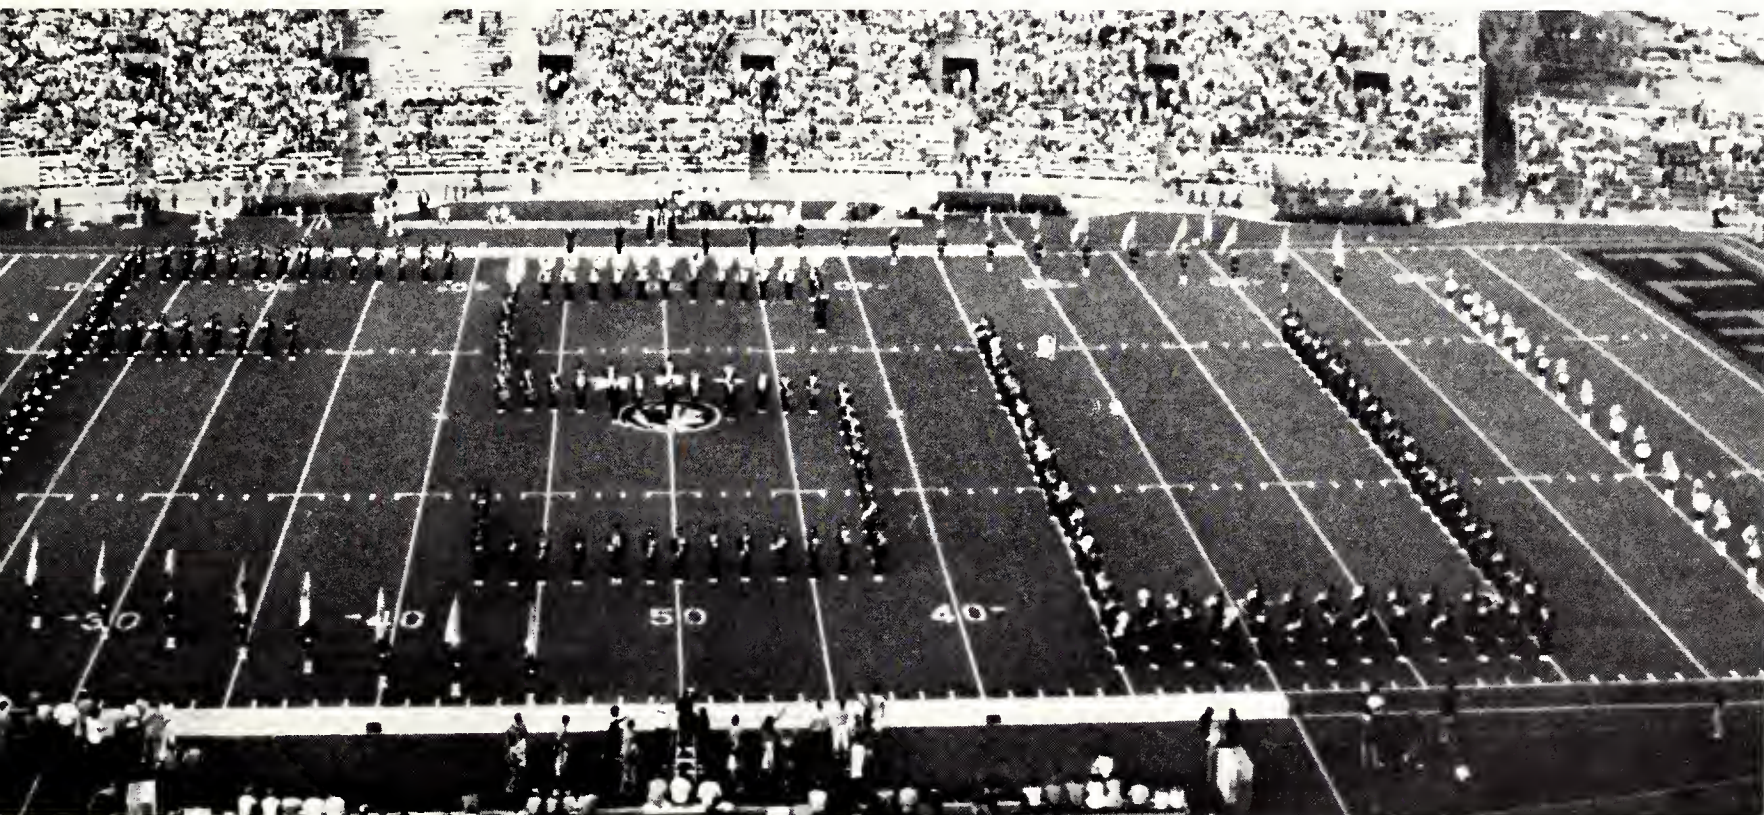

With the fourth year leadership of Mr. Bentley Shellahamer, assistant director of bands and director of the Marching Chiefs, the continued assistance of the coordinator of bands, Mr. Carl Bjerregaard, the work of the associate director and arranger, Charles Carter and the help of graduate assistant Don McLaurin, the Chiefs presented a superb style of performance which Seminole fans have seen in the past.

Navy ROTC started off the 1981 school year by holding their annual Dining In in November to celebrate the Navy's birthday. Later in the year the Drill team went to Mardi Gras and the Marine options went to Quantico, Virginia for field experience. The cadets gained sailing experience aboard their sailboat, The Conquest, and in keeping with tradition the cadets defeated the University of Florida during the yearly sailing competition. The year ended with the annual Spring Review.

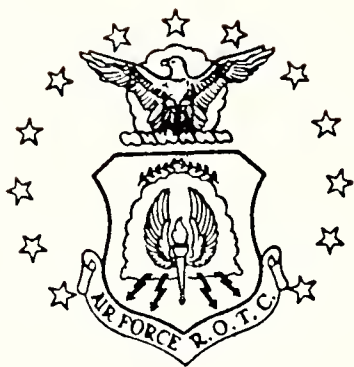

ARMY ROTC

The school year 80-81 featured many highlights for the Army ROTC cadets. Among them were the Riverine and Helicopter operation in November, the mountain survival exercise at Yohna mountain, and the spring field training trip. The Army emerged victorious in the annual Army/Air Force ROTC Toilet Bowl and successfully sponsored it's first annual "Gold Bar Run" with the proceeds donated to a Tallahassee charity. Given the enthusiasm and the initiative of this year's cadets, it really was a year in which they "learned to lead."

AIR FORCE ROTC

This has been a year of change and growth for Air Force ROTC. Three out of four officers arrived new to Detachment 145 this past summer. Although there was a lot to assimilate for these new members, our operations not only progressed smoothly, but enrollment actually increased significantly over last year. Some of our highlights have been the Spring Dining Out, Arnold Air Society's Commander's Call for the Southeast Area, and a JROTC Drill Meet that brought over 500 high school students from Florida, Georgia and Alabama for a day of intense competition. They also provided security for all home football games. New blood this year has brought many long awaited improvements to Det 145.

Flying Club

The FSU Flying Club is a non-profit organization whose main goals are to promote the educational, recreational and exciting aspects of aviation. Open to all FSU students, faculty, staff, alumni and their families, and any honorary members appointed by the club, the Flying Club took to the skies stressing safety as well as enjoyment. This year, the Flying Club activities included: parachuting, trips to fly-ins, and competitions to develop skills at the intercollegiate level.

The Florida State University chapter of Alpha Gamma Delta was established as the Gamma Beta chapter in 1928. The international sorority was founded on May 30th, 1904 in Syracuse, New York and since that time it has grown to 125 chapters in Canada and the United States. The Alpha Gam's enjoy participating in all aspects of college and sorority life by being active in such groups as Mortar Board, Garnet and Gold Key, Beta Alpha Psi and the Marching Chiefs. Their philanthropy is Juvenile Diabetes and their colors are red, buff and green. For the last two years, Alpha Gamma Delta has placed first among sororities in intramural football, and placing second campus wide. Annually, together with a fraternity, the Alpha Gam's host a Halloween Haunted House for underprivileged children. As their final goal, Alpha Gamma Delta works toward preparing collegiate women for a happy and rewarding future.

The Gamma Chapter of Chi Omega was established on the Florida State University campus seventy-four years ago. Since its founding at the University of Arkansas in 1895, Chi Omega has become the largest national sorority. The sorority's colors are cardinal and straw and the flower is the white carnation. Chi Omegas are active throughout campus and are members of various clubs and honoraries. Chi Omegas philanthropy is higher education for women.

Based on friendship and growth of the individual, DZ's actively participate in Greek functions such as Sigma Chi Derby, Greek Week, Campus Sing and Intramurals. In fact at the Annual Panhellenic Banquet in January, Delta Zeta was honored by receiving the 1979-1980 Sportsmanship Award for Intramurals. Besides being active in the sorority the sisters of Delta Zeta are leaders and participants in many other campus groups; F.S.U. Marching Chiefs, Lady Seminole Softball, F.S.U. women's soccer, F.S.U. bowling, Garnet and Gold Key, Rho Lambda, Garnet and Gold football recruiters and F.S.U. Scholastic Honorary — just to name a few. Whether it is a community service project or just a casual get-together of friends, the Delta Zeta's are always striving.

ADPI's have been busy this past year with various types of activities. Fall activities included a Punk Rock social with the Sigma Chi's, big/sis-lil/sis picnic, ADPI Christmas Party and a Fall Hayride. The Winter Quarter ended with ADPI's winning the honor of Sigma Chi Derby. This was the second time for the ADPI's, who had won the honor 2 years before. Awards included "Overall Spirit Award", 2nd in "dec a baby", 3rd place in "tug a war" and "hat decs", and 1st in "house decs and skit". Spring quarter is the setting for more events. ADPI's Spring Luau, Annual Margaritaville Social, and fund raising events are ADPI's calender.

The Kappa Delta's started the year with a great fall pledge class and a Blue Lagoon Social with the Lambda Chis. Fall Hay Ride, with Hutch'n Hoss, was rowdy as usual, and the annual Christmas Party in December meant lots of champagne and craziness. The KD Winter Banquet, Sigma Chi Derby, a successful Greek Week, socials with the KAs, ATOs, Sigma Chis, Theta Chis, Sigma Kappas and Pikes, White Rose Formal and the KD crush party made this year busy and enjoyable for Kappa Delta.

Leaders on campus and winners of the Greek Week spirit award, the ladies of the diamond, emerald and pearl strive for all that is highest — and like to have a good time in the process! "I'll be a KD, I'll be one forever."

Delta Gamma was founded in March of 1873 and the Gamma Mu Chapter of Florida State was established on this campus in 1951. The national DG colors are bronze, pink and blue. The DG's have a long and proud history of philanthropic projects. Their largest project of the year was the Anchor Splash which was held in the Spring Quarter. The purpose of the event was to raise money for the Blind and Sight Conservation. Anchor Splash lasted a week and was full of fun as well as competitive events between the Fraternities of F.S.U. The Delta Gamma's were also actively involved in such campus organizations as the Scalphunters, Batgirls, Student Government, Academic Honories and many more. This past year proved to be both an exciting one as well as a year of growth for the Delta Gamma's of Florida State University.

The Tri-Delts filled their '80-81 year with socials, service projects, new friendships and lots of fun. They welcomed Fall quarter with open arms and were rewarded with their quota of forty-five new pledges. The year continued to go well when they won a spirit contest held by Bill's Bookstore and walked away with a bushel of oysters to celebrate with. Pledge Formal, football games, their annual hayride, and a weekend jolt to Gatlinberg kept everyone smiling during the chilly months, along with several service projects. The Tri-Delts helped Governor Graham at his mansion for the annual ball, brought Halloween goodies and cheer to the Children's Home, and helped those at the Convalescent Home celebrate their birthdays each month. In Spring, the Tri-Delts had their annual Hollywood party — "Coasting the streets of Beverly Hills."

In addition to keeping busy as a group, these girls were involved as individuals in: Scalphunters, Golden Girls, Cheerleading, Action and Student parties, Soccer team, Rho Lambda, Mortar Board, Model Board, and much more.

Overall this year has been rewarding as well as fun for the Delta girls.

Phi Mu was founded in March of 1852 and the Alpha Epsilon Chapter on the Florida State Campus was established in 1929. The Phi Mu's main philanthropic service is Project Hope whose object is to teach modern techniques of medical science to medical, dental and allied health personnel in developing areas of the world. The national colors of Phi Mu are rose and white. As is common among all sororities at FSU, Phi Mu is made up of a variety of women with different abilities, personalities and interests which all blend together to form the strong common bond of sisterhood in Phi Mu. There are many Phi Mu campus leaders who remain active throughout the year. This past year was one of happy and rewarding times at the Phi Mu house.

For over thirty years on Florida State's campus, SIGMA PHI EPSILON has maintained its high standards in scholastic and athletic achievement. We take pride in being one of FSU's leading Fraternities both on the playing field, and in the class room. 1980-81 was a fine time to carry on these traditions, but with a new flare. Through the efforts of many hard working people, the Sig-Eps purchased what is now the largest fraternity chapter house at FSU.

This year Sigma Phi Epsilon sponsored and participated in many community and service projects, among them: the Leon County Blood Drive for Hemophiliacs, and two carnivals for underprivileged children.

1980-81 was a great year for Sig-Ep, with accomplishments and achievements too numerous to mention. Our past is rich with tradition and our future is bright. Only through Virtue, Diligence, and Brotherly love, can we fulfill our goals of the future.

Delta Tau Delta in its fourth year at FSU continued its tradition of service to the community, winning in intramural and leading a full social life. After rush, the highlight of Fall quarter was Homecoming which brought a pairing with ZTA and many long hours constructing the spirit award winning float. Other social highlights were Little Sister parties, Greek Week and socials with sororities. Some of which were: a pajama party with the Sigma Sigma Sigmas and a Caddy Shack social, and a snowskiing party with the Kappa Kappa Gammas. Prior to a Halloween social with the Thetas, the Delts turned their "Delta Shelter" into a Haunted House for underprivileged children. To support their national philanthropy, the Arthritis Foundation, the Delts organized a Fraternity Golf Tournament and held a Skate-a-Thon.

Alpha Tau Omega Fraternity has been established at FSU for thirty-two years, and has continuously projected a well-rounded image on campus and in the community. The fraternity endeavors to maximize the personal development of each member, by stressing involvement in varying activities. ATO sponsored the first annual love run which was a big success; all proceeds went to the Muscular Dystrophy Foundation. The men of Alpha Tau Omega are proud of their continuous growth and service to the community.

Active Alumnus Robert Urich, helped kick off the year as Grand Marshall for Homecoming 1980. Lambda Chi Alpha's annual balloon sale netted close to $600.00 for Easter Seals, and the frat also sponsored a benefit for the Jane Ribbens Memorial Fund, raising over $700.00

Lambda Chi's pride themselves in the social events that have become traditions at Florida State. The Godfather party was — as always — a success, and Suau was a day down on the farm with country music, a barn dance and a good time had by all. Spring weekend at Panama City was spent soaking up the sun and further building of brotherhood.

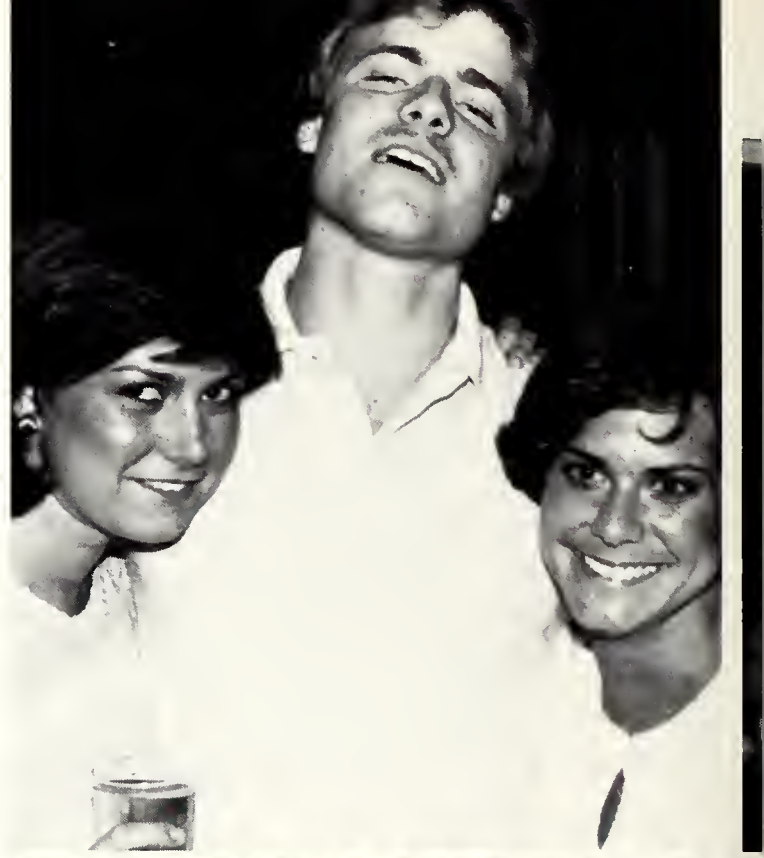

Whether on the field or on the sidelines, everyone got involved in campus intramurals. Lambda Chi's undefeated soccer team and their #9 nationally ranked Flag Football team, paved the way to the Overall Campus Intramural Championship.

Another goal for Lambda Chi! 2. When the Godfather invites you to a party . . . you go! 3. Spring weekend was proof of Lambda Chi's "building" brotherhood.

Artifacts Staff Is “HEAD OVER HEELS” About New Book!

The 1981 ARTIFACTS began with a boom in September of 1980. Full of vim and vigor the staff, chosen by Mrs. Karen Spurgeon — 1980 Artifacts editor, met and we decided on a theme and planned our strategy for the year. Soon the black clouds appeared and problems arose, yet we managed to keep our heads above the water and make it through to meet our deadlines. In October, we held a party to get to know one another — the staff was never the same after that. Every yearbook has its problems, yet my staff seemed to be jinxed from the start. Our problems ranged from operating out of a temporary office in the Union Information Office decorated with yearbook boxes, to a strange disease which many staff members caught, causing them to leave us. Through all these problems, I have, along with others, enjoyed the good times and the friendships which have developed through the year. I also want to thank those FEW who stuck it out and devoted their time up to the last deadline. You all know who you are and I thank you for your help. And to the student body I thank you for your support and understanding over the year.

Sincerely,

Jeff Abbaticchio, Editor
P.S. Georgia, have you found Mike?

Looks Like We Made It!

As this school year comes to an end, we must remember all of the great times we have spent here at Florida State. Many students will begin their professional careers, and others will continue on with Graduate school. Yet, we must not forget the friendships we have acquired here, and should cherish these friends forever.
